Builders: Canadian Biennial 2012

2 November 2012 - 18 February 2013

Builders presents more than 100 recent and significant acquisitions by emerging and established artists instrumental in shaping perspectives in Canadian art today. The exhibition reflects the work of the gallery's curators in building the collection through an informed understanding of contemporary Canadian art across diverse media, environment and generations.

The National Gallery of Canada brings to the Great Hall

"Curate your own Exhibit"

We invite a guest curator to display their vision for contemporary Canadian Art in a five week exhibition, working in conjunction with the National Gallery Curator, as a liaison between both parties. The goal is to promote a relationship between regional and national institutions.
